Gorilla Biscuits -Start Today-Rev.

RICH

There's no way to describe how pointless and stupid this record is from the ground up, start off with the packaging, "surfing dayglo" cover with puffy print. What the fuck? It's the Gorilla Biscuits, a "Hardcore" band not the Beach Boys or De La Soul. Your first 12 inch and you make it a media event and all for what- worthless kids who wouldn't buy it if it didn't jump out at them. Then the music is garbage, Bad Brains here, Dag there, All over that way, -who cares? Telling us not to watch T.V., pet our dogs etc. When crap like this is cast in front of me I usually thank god for INFEST.

TOM

I know your not going to believe this but I actually like it. I think it's got energy out the ass. It makes me get up and dance. Granted that's the music, the lyrics are another story altogether, there is not one topic of interest to me, it the same old stupid shit that the positive hardcore scene has been writing about for years. The only original idea that they came up with is that television is evil. I disagree, if it weren't for T.V. Gwar would have never been Americanized. Two more things I would like to mention about Gorilla Biscuits, the logo that is plastered everywhere on this record was stolen from Gilligan's Revenge, and the Gorilla Biscuits only redeeming quality, Arthur has left the band.

RICH

Savage idiocy done in a way that I enjoy very much, thank you. I mean, shit I don't know if it's a joke or not until I'm sure... Oi! Oi! Oi!!

TOM

I had no interest in Oi music before I got this record and now that I have it I still have no interest in Oi. This record is chock full of laughs, with songs reminiscent of Slapshot's ready to rumble style. It's worth getting just to get a kick out of even if you don't like Oi. Some of the lyrics tend to be very generic while others like "The Power and the Glory" and "Nowhere" deal with realistic problems. Probably the biggest drawback to this record is its cover. Really lame drawing of an eagle carrying a banner, but if you can get past that, besides each copy you buy helps to pay off the loan to Shawmut.

Jerry's Kids -Kill, Kill, Kill

RICH

Marred by a late release and over-production would be the only bad aspects of this rocker. Musically its not what I expected, rock-n-roll as compared to sheet structured, orgasmic, hardcore of previous releases. The previously released seven inch "Spymaster" is probably the best track on this slab, which was reported to be a cover. Who knows? Rock, Rock, Rock, Roll, Roll, Roll. Favorable? Yes. Buy it? Your choice. BOSTON-MUTHAFUCKER!

TOM

Let me start by telling you a little story... I took two days off of work to go to Boston to see the Jerry's Kids knowing full well that it was at a 21 and over club. I had to sneak up into the ceiling of the bathroom and hide during the soundcheck just to get in to see them. I was told not to worry, that I was in good company. Rockin' Bob of the Kids was said to have done it many times. If that doesn't give you an idea how much I like this band then maybe this record review will.

Their first release in over six long years, and its a killer. Pure rock and roll, it just never lets down from start to finish. Fuck hardcore this is real music. Twisted Brain, Right Now, Breath and Fuck, Satan's Toy, and Torn Apart leave me riving in joyous anguish. What are you doing reading this review? Go out and get this Right Now.

Killing Time -Brightside

TOM

Somebody told me that when Raw Deal changed their name to Killing Time that the guitarist from Metallica also joined the band. After hearing this I would beleive it. Nothing like what they originally sounded like. I must say that I actually tried to get into it, but they have just lost appeal to me.

PHIL: What's the deal with an appeal or anything like that?

ROGER: What's the deal with it?

PHIL: Yeah.

ROGER: Yeah, that's what I'm waiting for, you know, it's involved, and hopefully, shortly, you know, I'm going to beat this case with it. I beleive so. All I have to do is wait.

PHIL: You just got to wait it out and you think...

ROGER: I got a very good lawyer, but, you know, it's just getting the money together. There's a lot of shows going on, and, you know, the UNITED BLOOD is out. That helps, stuff like that.

PHIL: How's that selling?

ROGER: It's selling all right, I mean, it's only done by, like, word of mouth and now I'm writing to, like, a few 'zines which that hasn't really, just yours I guess.

PHIL: I got this other fanzine, this girl who wrote to me for a, like, help

ROGER

PHIL: The last one I was at was a SLAPSHOT one. That was good. I guess I'll start this; Does the penal system accomadate for vegetarians?

ROGER: Does the penal...

PHIL: Like with food.

ROGER: Does it, um, well you could say your a vegetarian and they'd give you like, what they'd really give you, like, fruits and stuff like that.

PHIL: Uh huh.

ROGER: But it's definately designed for, you know, meat-eaters.

PHIL: All right.

ROGER: That's definatate. There's no doubt about it. I myself am, I don't eat any red meat. I just eat, like, fish and chicken.

PHIL: I see.

ROGER: And if you saw the red meat in here you wouldn't be eating it too.

PHIL: No, its bad stuff.

ROGER: It's not red any more, it's green.

PHIL: Oh man. (LAUGHTER)

with hers and I'm sending down some pictures and then I'm also gonna send down that ad to her too, and tell her to give to some of her friends who write fanzines too.

ROGER: Uh huh.

PHIL: So that aught to work out good.

ROGER: If that ad gets out in a few 'zines and stuff it will be a lot better. Plus, there's a benefit show in May, I beleive at Trenton, NJ.

PHIL: Oh really.

ROGER: At that place, what's it called again?

PHIL: City Gardens.

ROGER: City Gardens. Underdog is playing.

PHIL: Who is?

ROGER: Underdog. The record will be there for sale.

PHIL: Alright. Do you have a private cell or what?

ROGER: A private phone?

PHIL: A private cell.

ROGER: No, I live in a dorm with 54 other guys.

PHIL: Oh, it's like barracks.

ROGER: Yeah, it's like a big dorm and we each got a little cube. But, you know, you could look over the other persons cube. The walls only three feet high. So it's sort of like Army barracks, kind of.

PHIL: Uh huh.

ROGER: You know, but it's open, you know, it's got, like, little cubes where you could hang your pictures and stuff like that.

PHIL: Right, are there any other people from, like, hardcore scenes up there in prison?

ROGER: Yeah, you got everybody up here.

PHIL: Yeah.

ROGER: Not really any top murders because they're in Max's. But you have people that were murderers that moved down, you know, you move down from Maximum to medium to minimum.

PHIL: Right.

ROGER: There's guys in here that done what they did, manslaughters, and stuff like that.

PHIL: What are you, are you a, what sort of, is it a maximum or medium, or what?

ROGER: I'm in a medium.

PHIL: It's a medium.

ROGER: Yeah. Medium A, which is higher than Medium B.

PHIL: What time is lights out?

ROGER: Lights go out at 11 o'clock.

PHIL: 11 o'clock, that's not so bad.

ROGER: Yeah, every night, but, um, weekends lights still go out at 11 o'clock, but the day room is open on weekends to two o'clock in the morning.

PHIL: What is the situation like with getting visitors?

ROGER: I'm allowed, what, four adults, you know, anytime I want, anytime they come up. If they come with a kid, it has to be the persons kid, and then it's from 8:30 to 3:30. There's really no hassle with that.

PHIL: Right. What do you, what do you do during the day? You learn a trade or...

ROGER: During the day I spend Mondays and Tuesdays and Thursdays and Fridays weightlifting, all day.

PHIL: Are you getting big?

ROGER: I don't know if I'm getting any bigger. I'm seeing myself all the time. I'm just getting sturdier here and there, you know what I mean.

PHIL: Right.

ROGER: But that the routine I've been working on for three months on those days and the Wednesday I have off, weekends I have off, you know, I'll go out in the yard and fuck around and lift up, to see how much weight I can lift up, just to see. And at night from 6:30 to 9:30 I go to college.

PHIL: Really

ROGER: Yeah.

PHIL: What are you learning?

ROGER: What am I learning?

PHIL: Yeah.

ROGER: It's just, um, what is it again, it's a two year course for arts, liberal arts.

PHIL: Oh really.

ROGER: Yeah, but it's just math and english, you know, your basic plus I take an essentials of art class.

PHIL: Is that equivalent to something that you get at, lets say, Queens Community College or something.

ROGER: Yeah, it's Cayuga Community College. It's part of the original Cayuga College, you know, but were inmates so, you know, we take requirements, you know, everything, you get points, the whole works.

PHIL: Oh that's fucked up. How do they get it there?

ROGER: How do they get it here I don't know.

PHIL: That's fucked.

ROGER: I don't know, and you know, I wouldn't even say over the phone.

PHIL: Yeah.

ROGER: But, um, it's here. You got everything. Anything you want. Any drug you want, You can get. And the way people buy all this stuff is cigarettes. Cigarettes is money.

PHIL: What's a pack of cigarettes worth?

ROGER: Well the only reason I keep, I don't smoke, I keep cigarettes for food, like I'll buy a loaf of raison bread from people, you know, that, like, work, people work in the mess hall rob shit and come around and sell it, you know, or I'll buy chicken or I'll buy fish, you know.

PHIL: Oh, that's all right.

ROGER: We got microwaves.

PHIL: It's good that you don't smoke too.

ROGER: Oh no I don't smoke.

PHIL: Yeah, that's good.

PHIL: That's all right.

ROGER: It should help when I get out.

PHIL: Is there any guard-inmate trouble at all?

ROGER: Yeah there's a lot of trouble.

What do you mean, fights and stuff.

PHIL: Yeah fights.

ROGER: Oh yeah.

PHIL: Shit like that.

ROGER: A lot of people that are here are from Riker's Island.

PHIL: Riker's Island isn't a good place.

ROGER: And they bring that attitude with them. Yeah there's a lot, you know, all the beefs are really, if you owe over bets, if you owe anybody, over drugs or stupid shit like that. If you keep to yourself, you just get yourself a partner, or somebody, you'll be all right.

PHIL: Uh huh, is there a lot of drugs in there?

ROGER: Oh yeah, you got everything in here.

ROGER: I don't even, yeah go ahead, I don't do anything, man. I don't belong in this motherfucker.

PHIL: Do you get your mail open?

ROGER: Yeah, I get my mail already open.

PHIL: Do they fish through everything?

ROGER: They go right through everything. The only mail they open before I get is legal mail, but then they open it in front of me.

PHIL: Uh huh, I see. Do you guys have uniforms or what?

ROGER: Yeah, we look like garbage men.

PHIL: Do they have your number printed on it?

ROGER: No.

PHIL: No, nothing like that.

ROGER: Nothing like that.

ROGER: We got an ID. card, but everybody wears green, green, like, garbage man pants. Do you know what I mean?

PHIL: Yeah.

ROGER: Mechanic type pants. And you can wear anything you want on top, you know, you could wear any colors but black, green, no, black, blue, orange, you know those are the colors your not allowed to wear, but you can get sweat-shirts, any shirt you want to wear on top. But they do give you matching garbage man clothes.

PHIL: I see, garbage men clothes are all right. I wear a gas station suit.

ROGER: Yeah and they give you these matching garbage man boots too.

PHIL: Yeah.

ROGER: It's all right.

PHIL: What do you think's gonna happen just, with the appeal?

ROGER: I think I'm gonna, I have a good lawyer, I have a top lawyer, and everybody knows I'm right, and I truthfully believe that they're gonna just, uh, release me right, you know, after the appeal. They're gonna just give me time served, tell me to go home.

PHIL: Oh, that's all right. Recently they, ah, did you see how they were letting prisoners out of prison in upstate N.Y?

ROGER: Yeah.

PHIL: Where they letting them out of Cayuga?

ROGER: Are they doing it? They will do it, but, they do it to people that already

PHIL: Right.

ROGER: I'll tell you we live in these little. There's 6 buildings and inside each building there's one room with 54 beds and you got a day room, a T.V. room. You got a shower, ping pong table, a little microwave. It's sort of like, I hate to say this, but it's sort of like boys clubs or something like that, you know.

PHIL: Uh huh.

ROGER: Nothing like you'd expect. It's not like prison. Except for you are, you know, you are around thieves and whatever. There are fights and stuff, people cut each other up, or stupid shit like that.

PHIL: Yeah, like, does it ever get, like...

ROGER: This is the worst medium. I'm in the worst medium jail cell there is right now, Cayuga.

PHIL: Is there, is there, like, solitary confinement.

ROGER: Yeah, they got what you call the box.

PHIL: Yeah, spend a night in the box.

ROGER: Yeah, they got that if you fuck up. You get caught with drugs or whatever. They give been here for a while, or have lesser sentences.

PHIL: Uh huh, there's no hope for that?

ROGER: No hope, nah, not for three years.

PHIL: Do you guys get shoelaces?

ROGER: Yeah I got shoelaces.

PHIL: Oh, 'cause in, like, some movies they don't have them, I wondered about that.

ROGER: No, that's only when you go to, like, county jails and stuff that the people hang themselves. There's no reason to, like, hang yourself if your in a medium, I don't believe so.

PHIL: Well, like, out of the prison movies that you've seen, which one is, like, the most like your situation?

ROGER: None, you know, I mean I seen the movie with, those movies you see, those prison movies are max's, like, El Mira, stuff like that. Top max's, you know, they're like, cells on top of each other, like, different floors, you know. It ain't nothing like that.

you 30 days, 60 days, 90 days.

PHIL: Holy shit. That must...

ROGER: They got protective custody unit there too, you know.

PHIL: Um, what do you think of the guards?

ROGER: I don't talk to them. I don't really deal with them too much. It's not good to be friendly with cops 'cause then they'll think your a snitch and stuff like that. I'm on the other side, I'm glad where my spot is, my cube. I have a window in my cube, and I'm on the other side, away from the cops, so I don't have to deal with their bullshit. But their alright. They don't bother. Only when they have to do your cube check or something. They come and tell you get out of the cube. I have to check it, whatever.

PHIL: What do they do search it?

ROGER: Yeah, search it for weapons and stuff like that.

PHIL: Yeah, back to the college thing. Is there, like, a library or what.

ROGER: Yeah, there's a library here. There is a law library. The law library is very good, you know, people want to know the law, inmates that want to know their shit.

PHIL: So do you study your case at all?

ROGER: Yeah, I been studying it. That's why I beleive I'm gonna be out...

PHIL: Uh huh.

ROGER: ...and my lawyer is supposed to send me stuff to read. I'll probably get it this week or next week which I could study some more, but it really, it's really a pain in the ass to study my case 'cause it makes me aggraivated, you know.

PHIL: Yeah, right.

ROGER: I'd rather be home with the baby and stuff like that.

PHIL: How, how are they doing at home? Are they doing alright?

ROGER: They're doing alright, but, you know, she's having problems, she's got a lot of bills to pay and stuff.

PHIL: Are the benefits doing anything for that?

ROGER: The benefits we are doing are to pay for my lawyer. She's got to work two jobs to keep up to everythi g, she lost one, but now I think she got one. My family sends her money here and there to her, you know, and my brother sends some money once in a while to buy food and stuff too.

PHIL: Well that's not so bad. Do you know the date of your appeal?

ROGER: No.

PHIL: No, I guess thats about it for the interview. This is is just see your situation I suppose.

When I read Combat Stance #3 I saw a shitty excuse for a letter that I was surprised that anyone had the nerve to even bother sending in. It was about how the Police represent Law and Order, which as they say is the opposite of hardcore. Don't you realize that you are talking out of your ass. Cops are the Law. It's has nothing to do with them when a criminal is released. It is the fault of the general public, who have placed such a high value on wealth and greed. It has made white collar criminals out to be heros. Oliver North was convicted of obtaining funds by fucking the American Taxpayers over. The same thing happened with the H.U.D. However they were given nothing more than a slap on the wrist, while in the state of New Mexico if you ~~are~~ caught stealing a cow you can be hanged. The Death Penalty for a cow, hours of community service for fucking around with the Constitution. That's why America is fucked up. If I were to commit embezzlement I would go to jail for 1-2 years, it doesn't matter if I steal 8 or 80 million dollars, but if I take a life (which is supposedly priceless) I'll get 7-8 years, but be ellegable for parole in 1-2. We cannot accept "white collar crime". But we do. If you still don't see this or can accept what they did then maybe you should get out of the country. Go to fuckin' Tianmen Square and roit with the Chinese for a while.

The cops get screwed by the judges, and we get fucked by the politicians, who are in charge of their own raises. So realize that next time you read a newspaper. If you don't agree write.

One last comment to the shithead who wrote the letter.

"If you don't respect the law then you're gonna have to die."
-Burden of Proof-

Hey Phil,

Thanks alot for the fanzine, it's pretty damn swell!!! I especially enjoyed the BURDEN OF PROOF interview. Jon, "Wreckin' Machine," is quite the character. Just recently, I saw Jon at the Channel. Shum "69" were suppose to play, but I guess they blew it off, who cares? They're a bunch of Old English Farts anyway. ($8.50 is a ridiculous price for any show).

That day, Bryan Jones (original Jerry's Kids singer) and I dyed our Hair BLUE for the occasion. We also had BLUE HAIR three weeks before at the G.G. Allan show down at Green Street. Funny thing, both headlining acts at both shows canceled out, which left Bryan and I standing around feeling PUNK-A-BILLY and BLUE. I guess they don't dig us CATS who got SLICKY BLUE TOPS. Punk Rock BEARS. That's our new thing now, BLUE HAIR. Every once in a while, Bryan and I go to Oso Drug and pick up a tube of BLUE JUNK and smear it in our hair. Anyway, before the stuff hardens, we like to shape our hair into some really FAR-OUT and FREAKY styles. I had this SICK CURL on the CREST of my forehead which resembled the PIPELINE of a wave. WHIP-OUT!! I wanted to stick a little surfer guy inside my curl but I couldn't find any floating around. I'll have to send you a picture.

After the canceled Shum "69" show, about thirty of us went off to the HILL TOP STEAK HOUSE in Saugus. Wreckin' Machine was there of course. You see, when Jon comes to Boston it's almost a blood brother ritual that we stampede to the Hill Top in search of BLOOD DRUNKED MEAT.

Incidentally, I agree with Wreckin' Machine. FUCK!! Hari Krishnas and FUCK all preaching vegetarians. I can think of a several instances where I would sit down at a restaurant with a bunch of people, and there would almost always be some high strung vegetarians chick trying to preach vegetables on me. I'm not knocking down vegetarians, I'm just saying I'd like to eat my MEAT in PEACE!! So this chick, the vegetarian, would always have to throw in her comments, like, "Gross, do you know how they raise and slaughter those animals?" You know the type, they try to make you feel unhealthy and guilty because you're eating SLAUGHTERED STEAK and they're munching on their GRANOLA and CEREALS. When they're saying, "don't you care about ~~our~~ God's creatures?" I'm saying, "KILL KILL KILL," and "You might as well eat meat, baby, because man's always gonna kill." "Meat's Meat's and Man's gotta Eat."

It's like getting shit for smoking. (Not that I smoke anymore, though I do inhale a little weed every now and then.) In a restaurant someone might say, "Excuse me this is a non-smoking section, please don't smoke." Well, I don't blame em, I would say the same thing. I think it's gross if someone is smoking while I'm eating. Anyway, you make the smoker feel guilty, but to make a RED BLOODED ALL AMERICAN feel guilty about SUCKIN' down some STEAK. Come on, what's this world of ours coming to?

What's even worse is that vegetarians want the entire restaurant to know that they're vegetarian. They do this by not ordering anything to eat; Though, they might be tempted to get a salad.

"Sarah, aren't you going to eat something?" "I don't EAT MEAT," she screamed across the room with a guilt piercing stare. "Oh I'm sorry this is a non-carnivore section," I said with blood dripping out of the corner of my mouth. "I guess, I'll drag my dead carcass and bloody plate out into the fucken woods, but first let me blow a little smoke in your face, baby."

Hey, did you ever wonder about female vegetarians? Those who refuse to eat meat yet swallow SUEEN, occasionally. These girls are not true vegetarians. Am I right? The truth of the matter is that they are eating thousands and thousands of tiny human swimmers. And those of you who have changed because of this HATED FACT, I feel sorry for your boyfriends. Let me close on this note, "if you're a vegetarian, that's fucken great. Keep your roughage to yourself." In short, I think all preaching VEGETARIANS should be VEGETABLES...

Well as always, our MEAT-FEST at the Hill Top was tops and alot of old ladies were jealous of our BLUE HAIR.

Got to go now Phil, I'm looking forward to the next issue.

Hey, If you know of anyone willing to trade Misfits "Walk Among Us" for Jerry's Kids NEW and OLD let me know... PS feel free to print this letter.

Rockin' Bob

This letter is in response to the letter you received from Adam Nathanson who, like most people, has been brainwashed by all the political bhlshlt that surrounds this argument. As with most arguments of this nature (i. e. abortion and capitol punishment) there will never be a true right or wrong answer, only opinion, and we all know what an opinion is worth. However, to look at the other side of the coin, let's ~~examine the pros and cons~~ of the issue. First off, for the record, I am an omnivore (for those of you who have no clue what that is, look it up.), so I stand on neutral ground, but by eliminating all meats from your diets, you create an imbalance in your body. Your body has certain needs that only proteins from meats can provide. Sure you can get partial proteins from other foods, but the key word is partial.

The next argument on Adam's point is about colon cancer. His point is true and valid, however today's vegies are just as unhealthy. Take for example all of the toxins and tasty chemicals that are sprayed on fruits and vegetables to make sure they look good to the consumer. Some may argue that this is not true, but if this is not true, why have there been so many bans on produce from certain countries in the last few years? The solution to this would be to grow your own food, but in order to keep bugs from eating most of your crops, insecticides must be used, there-by not solving the problem. So take your pick, colon cancer or toxins and chemical preservatives. Neither is better or worse in this case.

My third and final point is that the beef industry is one of the most successful agricultural corporations in America today, period. This is because, like Adam said, there are no "mom and pop" cattle farms. The "mom and pop" farms that do exist are produce farms, and these people have a hard enough time making ends meet. By eliminating the beef industry, you place an even heavier load on the small time farmers, which I don't feel they can support. If this were to happen, more money would be needed to pick up the slack. This would amount to billions of dollars that could only come from two places; taxes, and an increase in cost of the produce itself. If the latter were to happen, people would look to imported produce, thus defeating the whole idea.

So go ahead and grab your favorite "Hidden Valley Ranch", and I'll get my B.B.-Q and the "A.I." Bon appetite, and remember, this is only an opinion presented to shed some light on the other side of the arguement.

Listen up, scum. I've heard your talk, threats, mindless drivel, incessant chatter, and what have you, but I want to make a few things clear. For starters a lot of you seem to think we are not straightedge... oh contrair, straight edge yes, positive no. Allow me to repeat myself "Combat Stance is Straight Edge, Combat Stance is not Positive."

Positive, positive, I don't understand any of you hypocrites. "Oh yeah man I'm in a positive band, dude." But you, Jon "Big Nose" Porcell, shove people out of the way to get first dibbs at records, or when Ray Cappo (You Freak) ran out of money and stole what he had his eyes on. Yes readers beleive it, I saw it. Ray the Greedy Gurro steals records. Now I ask you is that very positive. Or you Inward Monitor, you ramble on, "Oh man, We gotta save the trees" Don't you slaughter innocent plant life to write your 'zine, stealing the air just like McDonalds. Or your photos, film is gelitian. Gelitin is an animal product... you thugs, heartless murders.

On the subject of sorry asses, take Pay Back for example, I'd be careful at their shows. The two fat guys look like they are going to explode. God damn, these two were beat so hard with the ugly stick, that I bet it broke on them. As for their equally ugly girlfriend "BIG BECKY" the writer of Contax One, yes I am speaking of you, you fat, vegetarian hairball, get your face out of the feedbag. I heard a tale that one fatkid got so hungry that he ate the P. A. system at the Antrax.

Squaters suck. Half of those kids could go back to mommy in Connecticut. You say "Oh man, they don't understand me dude." Well I don't understand blue hair and a drill bit through your nose either. All you straight edge kids who go to squat or rot benefits, don't you realize that you are just buying them booze and cigarettes. I hope the city of New York sets them all on fire, squaters included.

Smashin' Through Cheap, What chowderheads. They say the thing is cheap. Ten pages for a dollar. Ten pages free like Combat Stance is a better buy. Smashin' Through Cheap... cheaply made I think. They ask you not to read Combat Stance, we don't want timid faggots like Smashin' Through Cheap to read Combat Stance, it is for real men, which you gutless terds fall short of being. You two bit punks don't like cops. If you are being raped, who do you want to turn the corner? Mister Softie or Off-icer Nightstick. I am also glad to see that we made your no thanks list under assholes. That's right we are assholes, taking shits all over you. What kind of sap would let someone have a refund.

Lets see who else do I have to pick a bone with... Ah, Here we go Up Front. Ever heard their demo? I have and have to say that they have not improved. I'll bet in a few years you fags will be at college, smoking pot and pounding beers. Consider yourselves lucky that I am now in the Coast Guard or I would beat your Connecticut sorry asses.

S.A. Phillip E. Linden.

Lately I have noticed an increase in the proposed banning of certain items and products. A church group in Texas prohibited its members from drinking Pepsi because Madonna, who made a commerical for them, made a video which they considered sacreligious. Some enviornmental groups have banned the use of Exxon products because of the Alaskan oil spill. Mike Bullshit says that you shouldn't buy Combat Stance and instead waste your funds on Give Thanks or his piece of trash rag, and recently I saw an article in some 'zine that listed what you should boycott if you stood for a certain cause.

I just laugh at anyone who actually thinks that they are making a differance in the world by not using these products. These companies are Multi-National Billion-Dollar a year corporations. Don't expect them to go broke just because you won't shampoo your hair because Prell tests their product on ducks. I'll bet the ducks like getting washed, I know my parrot does, and I'm glad that Pepsi got banned because I like Coke better even if they support appartied in South Africa. And Mike I agree with you, DON'T BUY COMBAT STANCE its free.

But what if by some stroke of misfortune Exxon were to go out of business, those poor animals that the enviornmentalists seem to care so much about would suffer even longer. Exxon has taken the responsability for the clean-up and although they have yet to do a suffiecent job, it's more than you have by purchasing Mobil instead.

TROUBLE MACHINE

Attention all you "hardcore" people, it has just been brought to my attention that there are no more matinees at CBGBs. That is the best news that I have heard in a long time. Maybe now some of you idiots will wake up and smell the bacon. Hardcore used to be a good thing. That was back in 1983 though. Since none of you were around then, you wouldn't know it. "Hardcore" from 1986 on became a big joke. You are all to blame for it. You all accepted bands that were shit and encouraged them to play out and make records. What you should have done was told them they sucked and thrown things at them. Go find a mirror now and take a long hard look at yourself. Aren't you ashamed at what you see? Dosen't it make you sick? Look at you with that stupid haircut, those laughable clothes and worst of all, those pathetic tattoos. You got them because you thought you would be young and "hardcore" forever. Well, I got news for you, you're not. As far as you girls are concerned, there's nothing less feminine than a girl with a shaved head, tattoos, boots, and wearing boys clothes. I'm sure you're the object of every boys desires. You think you're so different, you're all the same. Most of you never finished high school, or have a decent job. Well, who's going to hire a loser like you anyway. Just face it, you'll never amount to anything. The only cure for someone in you're position is suicide. That's right, so why don't you do at least one right thing with your miserable life and end it. I will personally give $10 to anyone who can convince one of these "hardcore for life" losers to kill themselves. Hardcore is offically over, actually, its been dead for years, but nobody had the decency to bury it. This is your big chance, the rest of you, to get a real life.

Always respect the police and obey the law.

ROBOCOP

TOM: How long were you on the force as Officer Murphy?

ROBOCOP: Officer Alex Murphy served on the Detroit Police for close to ten years.

TOM: Did you ever feel any interest towards Officer Lewis either before you became Robocop or after?

ROBOCOP: No, Murphy was married. Officer Lewis was his assigned partner, they were on a professional basis. As for now I don't think that she would be able to withstand the force of my mechanical penis.

TOM: Are there any features programmed into your system that enable you to have feelings such as fear, hate, or revenge?

ROBOCOP: These emotions are not programmed into my system, but sometimes my memory chips recall Murphy's feelings.

TOM: Would you ever consider reacting on his feelings?

ROBOCOP: Never, they are in direct conflict with my prime directives.

TOM: How come the designers didn't protect your entire face with armor?

ROBOCOP: A portion of my face was left exposed to add a human element to my Cybornetic features.

TOM: Do you consider ED-209 as a threat or a nemesis?

ROBOCOP: The Enforcement Droid Series 209 is a threat to the people of Detroit, not to me. There are too many faults in its system to be a safe effective means of Law Enforcement.

TOM: What do you consider the best made weapon?

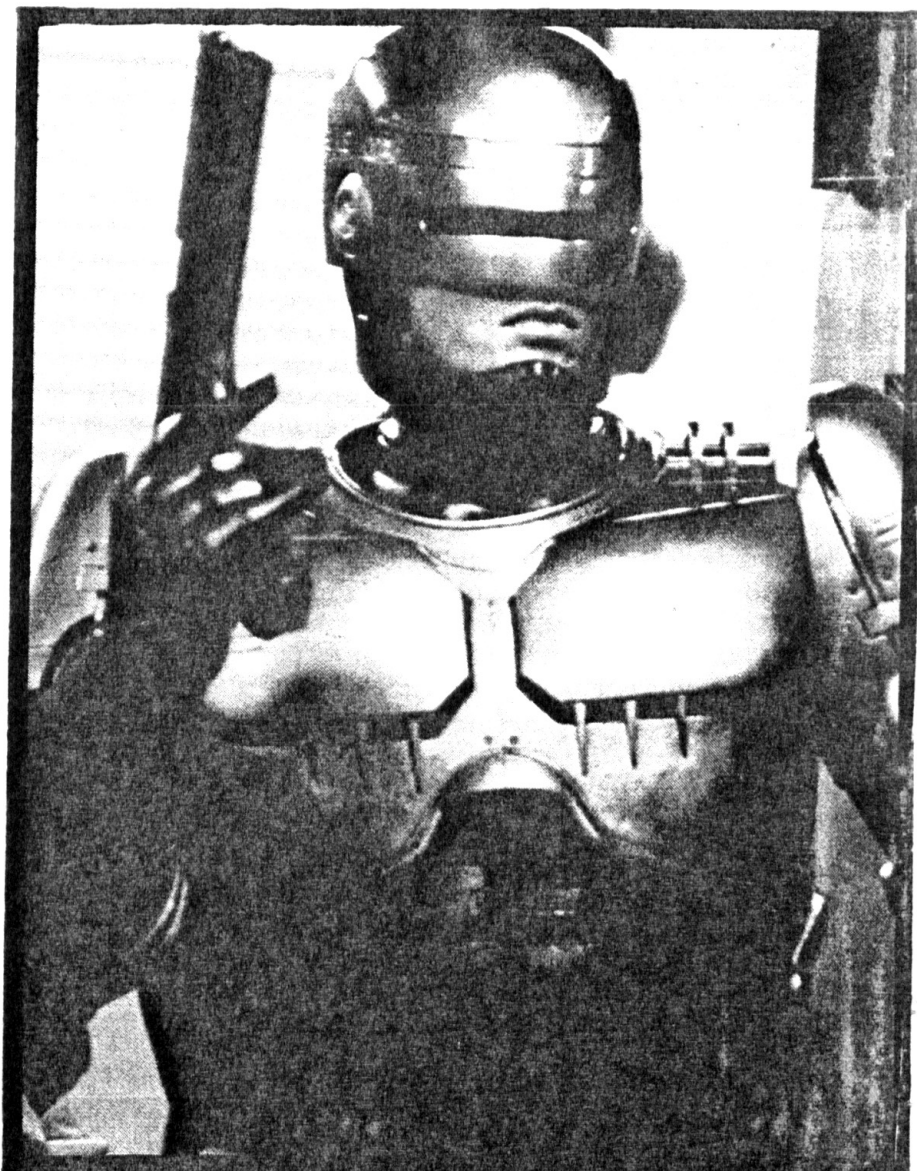

ROBOCOP: Mine, It's rapid repeat fire enables me to kill, kill, kill.

TOM: And how do you feel about your Police Cruiser?

ROBOCOP: We are currently using the Ford Taurus SHO. It's adequate enough to get the job done, but nothing can match the quality of the Plymouth Grand Fury's we used back in the mid '80's, now that was the ultimate Police Cruiser, without a doubt.

TOM: Do you feel Dick Jones and Clarence Boddicker got what was coming to them?

ROBOCOP: Yes, it took me a while to get the whole conspiracy under control, but when I did, there was justice and death.

About to do some KILLING.

TOM: What would you like to see being done to make the streets of Detroit safer for the law-abiding citizens?

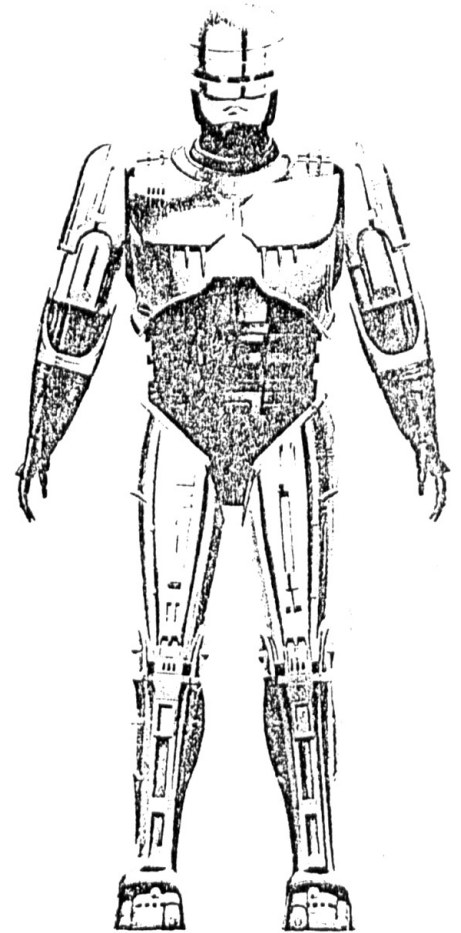

ROBOCOP: People must stop being so apathetic to drug use. Drugs have killed more people than you think. Most crimes can be traced to drugs. The Judicial System must show no mercy to those who sell and use drugs. A death penalty must be enacted on a national level. Tax-payers must demand it.

TOM: Do you have any last comments you would like to tell the general public?

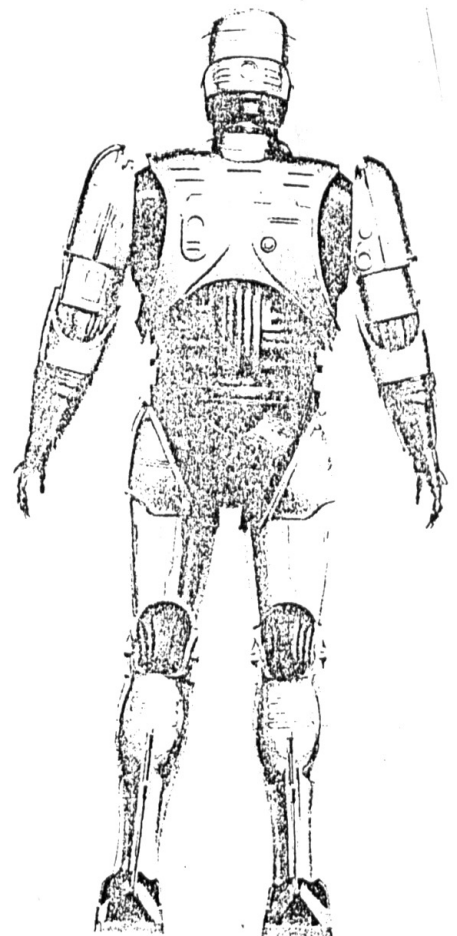

ROBOCOP: Yes, Stay out of trouble.

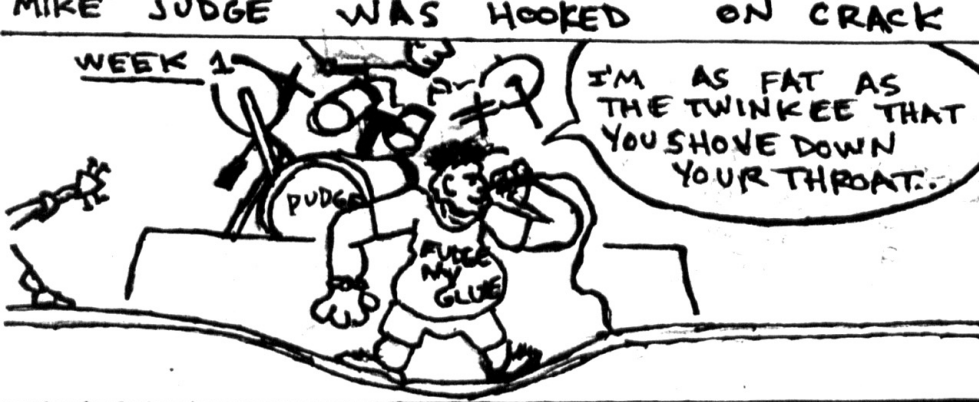

Robocop's only weakness, Prime Directive #4.
